Stephen Hawking warns over making contact with aliens

Aliens almost certainly exist but humans should avoid making contact, Professor Stephen Hawking has warned.

"If aliens visit us, the outcome would be much as when Columbus landed in America, which didn't turn out well for the Native Americans," he said.

Professor Hawking thinks that, rather than actively trying to communicate with extra-terrestrials, humans should do everything possible to avoid contact.

He explained: "We only have to look at ourselves to see how intelligent life might develop into something we wouldn't want to meet."

In the past, probes have been sent into space with engravings of human beings on board and diagrams showing the location of our planet.

Radio beams have been fired into space in the hope of reaching alien civilisations.

Professor Hawking said: "To my mathematical brain, the numbers alone make thinking about aliens perfectly rational."

"The real challenge is to work out what aliens might actually be like."

The programme envisions numerous alien species including two-legged herbivores and yellow, lizard-like predators.

But Professor Hawking conceded most life elsewhere in the universe is likely to consist of simple microbes.

In the recent BBC series Wonders of the Solar System, Professor Brian Cox, a physicist from the University of Manchester, suggested life may exist elsewhere within our solar system.

He said organisms could be present under the ice sheet that envelopes Europa, one of Jupiter's moons.

Professor Cox added: "Closer to home, the evidence that life could exist on Mars is growing."

"We will only know for sure when the next generation of spacecraft, fine-tuned to search for life, are launched to the moons of Jupiter and the arid plains of Mars in the coming decades."

HAVE YOUR SAY

I believe it is inevitable that different forms of life exist within our universe

Professor Stephen Hawking

"The real challenge is to work out what aliens might actually be like."

The BBC is not responsible for the content of external internet sites.

TOP UK STORIES

- Cameron and Clapton: We are united
- UK passenger 'was on crash plane'
- Football fan 'attacked our idol'

Most popular now, in detail

BOOKMARK THIS PAGE

What are these?

E-mail this to a friend

Printable version

FEATURES, VIEWS, ANALYSIS

New approach

How UK foreign policy will shape under its coalition

Banning the bomb

Could the Middle East become nuclear-free?

UK pictures

Images from the scene of the Madrid plane crash

MOST POPULAR NOW

Traffic to this site is currently 11% above normal

BBC © MMX

The BBC is not responsible for the content of external internet sites.